

The Five Day Literary Week Held at IIS

A five day Literary Week was held at IIS that commenced on 23rd September and concluded on 27th September. It was the first time that the whole school was involved. When the Inter-house debate was held, the rest of the school from 3-12 were also involved in debating, whereas, classes 1 and 2 indulged in group discussion. 24th was dedicated to Multilingual Poetry. The scenario was the same with the Inter-house being performed centrally with the rest of the school involved in multilingual. This day witnessed class 1 and 2 turned into slam poets, reciting poetry.

September 25th brought in the creative talent of the students, where 1 and 2 kept themselves busy enhancing their writing skills. 26th September stunned the audience in the auditorium with the dramatic skill of the IISians. A wonderful show of short skits based on folk tales was performed by the different houses in competition. On this day, classes 1-5 kept themselves busy with picture composition, class 6-8 had Intra-class slogan writing on Social Issues and 9-12 went in for Poster making on Environment issues.

Last, but not the least, the most liked and cherished activity, “Bilingual Turncoat” stole the show. The juniors from 6-8 exhibited their expertise in communicative skills flaunting their command over both languages – Hindi and English. The reverberations echoed all over the campus. The five day Literary week ended with a wonderful exposure that the IISians got. Looking forward to more of intellectual experience in the coming time is what the students had to say.
